A truck loaded with U. S. First Cavalry Division troops roars past cheering Korean natives north of Seoul on the way to the 38th parallel. A South Korean flag flies overhead as natives wave smaller flags. On Oct. 8 these U. S. troops moved across the 38th parallel into North Korea. ## 'Rogues Gallery' Printed in Moscow

Western Leaders Contained in Soviet Magazine in Satirical Way

(By The Associated Press) A "rogues gallery" of western leaders, printed in Moscow by the Soviet Union's magazine "Crocodile," has just reached the United States. This magazine, which specializes in the Soviet brand of satire, gave a full page to the feature.

The "gallery" caricatures Winston Churchill, Secretary of State Acheson, John Foster Dulles and General MacArthur, with the explanation they are catalogued to assist "a future international court." They are pictured in front and side views.

Churchill's "fingerprint" is in the shape of an atomic bomb. Acheson's fingerprint bears dollar signs, Dulles' swastikas. MacArthur's fingerprint is printed in red and seems to be dripping blood.

Drawing heavily on the Soviet propaganda stock of libel, "Crocodile" lists Churchill's nickname as "Jackal" and his criminal specialty as "incendiary." Among his characteristics is given "chronic inability to hold back speeches" (Fulton, House of Commons, and western Germany).

Acheson's nickname is given as "diplomat," his specialty as "White House bookend" and his special characteristics as:

"Tall height, low character. Possesses a voice (Voice of America) but speaks not in his own language (the Voice of Wall Street). Passes only bad checks." Dulles, whom the Soviet Union has accused of giving the signal for the start of the Korean war, is called "an egger on." His special traits are described as:

"Cross-eyedness (one eye on Europe and the other on Asia); long ears (recently stuck out beyond the 38th Parallel); constantly wears a brown shirt and will change it only for a straw jacket." MacArthur's specialty is called "cross-eyedness" with special traits "hands are short (toward Korea)." Crocodile is published in an edition of 275,000 copies and thus has one of the largest circulations of any magazine in Russia. The magazine, published by a circulation of 500,000 plus and Ogonek 400,000.

Crocodile is a bi-weekly, is sold at newsstands for one ruble, 20 kopecks (30 cents) but its basic circulation is through subscriptions. It is found in libraries and reading rooms throughout Russia.

Four Children Die

St. Albans, Vt., Oct. 9 (AP)—Four children suffocated in their beds and their baby-sitting uncle was burned in a rescue attempt yesterday when a small fire broke out on the first floor of a two-story house. The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olson Bluto, were away. The victims were Keith, 10; Judith Ann, eight; Donna Lee, six, and Darrell James, one. Their uncle, Olan Bluto, about 30, suffered serious burns in the fire. The blaze, believed to have started in the kitchen, was extinguished by firemen in less than ten minutes.

C.I.O. Says Sessions Already Started; No Replies From Biggest

Pittsburgh, Oct. 9 (AP)—C.I.O. United Steelworkers today reported 35 large and small steel companies have agreed to immediate negotiations on the union's demand for a "very healthy and substantial wage increase."

District U.S.W. directors were given the job of arranging negotiation sessions at mutually agreeable times. Some of the sessions are already under way.

The big union said it has received replies from 41 of the 100 companies which the U.S.W. asked to reopen provisions of their contracts today instead of November 1.

Five companies suggested meeting with the union at one later date between now and November 1, the date set by the contract for reopening wage provisions.

One company, the Babcock and Wilcox Tube Company, Beaver Falls, Pa., insisted on holding to the November 1 date.

No replies have been received from the nation's two biggest steel producers—United States Steel Corporation and Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Letter Is Sent

But Bethlehem sources said the company sent a letter during the week-end expressing willingness to meet with the union at a mutually convenient time.

A union spokesman said that while 35 companies agreed to meet today, in many cases the first sessions cannot be arranged for at least 24 hours.

Among these companies is Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, fourth largest producer.

The negotiations are scheduled for the various cities where headquarters of involved companies are located.

Vice President John A. Stephens of U. S. Steel has only recently returned from a California trip. He is reported studying Murray's request. A source close to him said "Big Steel" probably will have a statement soon.

There's no indication Murray will get what he wants—just for the asking or that an agreement will be reached soon. Under the contract the union is free to strike January 1, 1951, if wage negotiations are not concluded satisfactorily.

U. S. Insists Help Is Based On Materials, Equipment

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—The United States, turning down a British request for "free dollar" aid to hasten her rearmament, is insisting that U. S. help for the present will be granted only to buy raw materials and equipment.

The British had requested they be allowed to use American dollars for whatever purpose they desired as long as their military production was increased according to the plan they have drafted.

New Jersey Runs Short of Tubes for Radio, Television

Situation Exists Despite Record Production; Severe Buying Is Set as Reason

Newark, N. J., Oct. 9 (AP)—Tubes for radio and television sets are in "fantastic" short supply in New Jersey despite all-time high production by manufacturers.

A survey of distributors, dealers and repairmen today revealed a constant pattern—tubes, aside from TV picture tubes, are hard to get.

Discussions with tube manufacturers revealed record production is underway, and facilities constantly are being expanded.

While top industry spokesmen were loath to being quoted directly, a few leading distributors were not shy about voicing opinions.

A typical comment came from a spokesman for Krich-Radice, Inc., Newark distributor: "The situation is just short of fantastic. We can sell 10 times as many tubes as we can get."

Variety Electric Co., of Newark, said, "Most of the small types of radio and television tubes are unobtainable at this time. Shipments from manufacturers have been few and far between, and the quantities over the past two months have been (Continued on Page 15, Col. 7)

Big Trailer Spills 16 Tons of 'Oleo'

A load of 32,569 pounds of oleomargarine was shaken and scattered early this morning when a tractor-trailer upset at Foxhall and Albany avenues.

Officer Charles Hoehning reported at 1:22 a. m. that the heavy vehicle operated by George Baits, Jr., 29, of Bound Brook, N. J., was headed north on Foxhall avenue and turning right into Albany avenue when a "fifth wheel broke loose from the tractor" on the turn.

The vehicle skidded along 25 feet of lawn and sidewalk in front of the August Brock property at 438 Albany avenue and came to rest on the Frank Schilling property, Roosevelt and Albany avenues.

The trailer, owned by the Chicago Express, Inc., St. Louis, Mo., was damaged considerably, but the driver reported no injuries. The street was reported cleared up at 5:40 a. m. rearmament talks now going on. Galt's trip is his first to the United States, they said, and his main purpose is to "get acquainted" with top-ranking American financial and economic leaders.

Yesterday, Galt's trip to New York was reported by the U. S. State Department as a "revelation of the pound would come up for discussion. He told newsmen "there's no intention to revalue the pound."

British government spokesmen have denied any action to increase the value of the pound is contemplated. Britain devalued the pound from $4.05 to $2.80 on Sept. 18, 1949.

The British cabinet minister is reported ready to back up his government's request for $1,500,000,000 in "free aid" over the next three years.

The United States, officials said, believes that sum cannot be justified by the results that can be expected from the British rearmament program. But the American note which was sent to the British embassy over the week-end does not reject outright the British request for this amount.

It said the idea is to have the U. N. flag along with the American flag "just as it is displayed over General MacArthur's headquarters."

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Leonard J. Erickson, 47, brother of jailed millionaire bookmaker Frank Erickson, was arrested today on a 30-count information charging conspiracy and bookmaking.

A raid on a plush Park avenue office last spring led to the jailing of Frank Erickson. He pleaded guilty to bookmaking charges last June and was sentenced to serve two years in Riker's Island penitentiary and fined $50,000.

The raided office was listed under the name of Leonard Erickson. District Attorney Frank S. Hogan today recalled that Frank Erickson had told a Senate committee that he had paid Leonard $20,000 a year for "making bank deposits" for him.

Arrested today on the same charges were two other men said to have been associated with Frank Erickson. They were Leonard and William (Bill) Erickson, 47, alias William (Bill) (248 Spring Valley road), Oradell, N. J., and Louis Carlin, 52, of Manhattan.

"Accepted Bets"

The New York county grand jury charged that the three accepted bets totaling $98,717.25 in amounts ranging from $200 to $15,000.

Hogan described Fernbacher as a close associate of Frank Erickson, and said Fernbacher often acted as Frank's chauffeur. Records show in the Park avenue raid, Hogan said, included papers showing Fernbacher was an employee of Jack Lennon, of Cliffside, N. J.

Hogan said Fernbacher was wanted for questioning in the Frank Erickson investigation, but was "unavailable" and the others surrendered in Hogan's office today.

Asked if there was any evidence involving payoffs to police, Hogan replied "no."

As far as we could ascertain, they never operated out of New York," Hogan said when asked if the Park avenue office was the group's headquarters. "Their operating offices were in various parts of New Jersey. The bets were accepted in New Jersey by telephone from bettors in New York and other states."

Hogan said the alleged bookmakers "had the impression that they were immune to prosecution in this country the actual bets were accepted in New Jersey, but after we got the names of bettors and had them testify that they had betted with them, they were arrested."

Meanwhile, the city's expanding police graft investigation opened a new week.

Injuries Are Fatal To Charles Carlson

Charles B. Carlson, husband of Minnie S. Carlson, of 65 Staples street, died suddenly Friday at Perth Amboy, N. J., from injuries which he suffered aboard the tug boat Chotaw, operated by I. S. Bushey & Sons Towing Line of Brooklyn. Carlson had been a resident of this city for several years and prior to being employed by the Bushey company was employed by the Moran Towing Company until he changed his employment several months ago.

Beside his wife he is survived by a daughter, Miss Mildred Carlson of Chicago; three sons, P. F. Clifford Carlson with the United States Marines in Korea, Charles and Edgar Carlson of Chicago; a sister, Lydia Carlson of California, and two brothers, Augustus Carlson of San Francisco and Frank Carlson of Indiana. Carlson was a member of the U. S. Marine Division of I. L. A. Local No. 333, A. F. of L. of New York.

Funeral services will be held from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street, Wednesday, at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Wilmette cemetery.

Yale Graduate, 27, Held in Slaying Of Psychiatrist, 47

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 9 (AP)—A 27-year-old divinity school graduate was identified today as the night caller who fatally shot a prominent Yale psychiatrist and critically wounded his wife.

State Police Major Leo F. Carroll said the suspected slayer of Dr. Lewis Thorne was Theodore A. Trent-Lyon of New Haven. He said Trent-Lyon was identified by Mrs. Thorne after he was picked up by two Springfield, Mass., policemen who became suspicious of him while he waited for a bus.

Trent-Lyon, an honor graduate of Yale and a graduate of Harvard Divinity School, was believed to be a former patient of the psychiatrist's. Carroll said after police questioned him in search of a motive.

Never Held Pastorate

Authorities at Harvard Divinity School said they did not believe Trent-Lyon ever had held a pastorate. While at Yale he gave a lecture on a "new theory of morals" which attracted considerable attention in collegiate circles at the time.

Carroll said Trent-Lyon, returned here, was positively identified by Mrs. Thorne as the man who pumped six bullets into her husband's heart last night as he stood in the doorway of his North Haven home.

The slayer then turned his gun on Mrs. Thorne—mother of two small children—and felled her with two bullets.

Carroll said the Springfield policemen found a .22 calibre pistol and several bullets when they searched their captive.

After being brought here, Trent-Lyon was held on a coroner's warrant.

Assistant Professor

Dr. Thorne, 42, was assistant clinical professor of psychiatry and mental hygiene at the Yale School of Medicine.

The only description of the slayer was supplied by the gravely-wounded woman.

From fragmentary statements, police pieced together this story of the shooting.

Dr. and Mrs. Thorne were in the living room of their home when the doorbell rang. Dr. Thorne answered the ring. Mrs. Thorne heard an exchange of words and then her husband said, "Just a moment." Then two shots rang out and the doctor staggered into the living room and slumped to the floor dead.

Mrs. Thorne was shot when she went to her husband's aid. One bullet tore into her head near the right eye. Hospital attaches said there was evidence she also had been beaten by the slayer.

Dulles Asks Adoption of 7-Nation Plan for Peace Drawn by Acheson

Lake Success, Oct. 9 (AP)—The United States called on the United Nations Assembly today to make itself strong enough to stamp out little wars so they won't grow into big ones.

John Foster Dulles, ranking Republican member of the U. S. delegation, urged adoption of a seven-nation program of peace aims first outlined by U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Forming the core of the program were proposals for quick emergency sessions of the assembly when the Security Council cannot act; peace patrols of observers to report to the Assembly on acts of aggression, and member army units available for U. N. collective action.

Britain, France, Canada, the Philippines, Turkey and Uruguay joined the U. S. in sponsoring a "united for peace" resolution to carry out the program.

Does Not Take View

Dulles said the United States does not take the view that a general war is inevitable. "But," Dulles added, "we do recognize that the prevalent fear is a corroding and dangerous force. Fear of war, if not allayed, creates the conditions that make war more likely."

"Nothing that we can do will make peace certain. But we can make less likely that there will be little wars and big wars. That is worth doing."

He pointed to the collective action of the U. N. in the Korean conflict as the pattern for U. N. action in the future, but acknowledged that only a series of accidents made U. N. success there possible.

Boycott of Council

These were Russia's boycott of the Security Council in June and inability to cast a veto; the rejection from the U. N. Commission on Korea; and the presence of (Continued on Page 15, Col. 6)

Secretary of State Says War Talk Terrible Error for Nation

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—War is not inevitable, and no American should say it is, Secretary of State Dean Acheson declared last night.

"If we keep always before us that our purpose in building military power is to enable us to settle our differences by peaceful means, then we shall avoid the terrible error of talking and acting as though the end of our effort is war," he said.

Acheson spoke at Freedom House, where he received the organization's award as "a valiant and constructive voice, leading the Democratic nations against tyranny."

President Plans Major Talk On Nation's Foreign Policy

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Close associates disclosed today that President Truman is planning a major foreign policy speech in New York this month.

The speech, a non-political talk to the United Nations general assembly, is one of possibly three or four talks Mr. Truman contemplates making before the congressional elections in November.

These sources, who cannot be quoted by name, said Mr. Truman has definitely abandoned any thought of an extensive "whistle-stop" political campaign. He had contemplated such a stupor tour before the Reds invaded South Korea and made inopportune a direct new appeal in behalf of the "fair deal."

A White House announcement on the New York speech—Oct. 24—will await a formal invitation from the United Nations. The occasion is the fifth anniversary of the date when the United Nations charter became effective.

Buffalo Slump Is Puzzle to Leaders

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP)—Registration of voters began in New York city and Westchester county today as political leaders puzzled over a big slump in Buffalo and a correspondingly big increase in Nassau county.

At the halfway mark, Buffalo reported a drop of more than 11,000 from the total for the first two days of registration in 1946, the last gubernatorial year. The figures were not official.

But in heavily Republican Nassau county, there was a jump of more than 11,000 last Friday and Saturday.

There was a smaller increase—about 1,000—in Democratic-controlled Albany and books in several other cities, upstate.

Two-Day Total In Registration Is 958 Above 1946

Decline of 88 Is Shown From 1949 Figures; 5,530 Sign Thus Far

Total registration in the city for the first two days this year was 88 under the 1949 total for the two days and 958 above the 1946 gubernatorial election year.

The first day this year was 265 over the 1949 total and 538 above the 1946 first-day total, but the second day this year was 353 under the 1949 second day.

The two-day total this year was 5,530 and in 1949 it was 5,618. The 1946 two-day total was 4,572. The first day total this year was 2,710 and the second, 2,820. Last year they were 2,445 and 3,173.

The four-day total last year was 15,037. In 1949 it was 14,993 and in 1946 it was only 13,078.

Buffalo's registration in Poughkeepsie was 5,873. In 1946 it was 4,967. The 1950 total shows a gain of 806.

Newburgh's two-day registration was 359 under 1946. The 1950 figure for the two days is 3,248.

Seven Workmen Hurt

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Seven workmen were hurt today in a scaffolding accident at the White House, now undergoing extensive restoration. They were taken to Emergency Hospital, where it was said their condition was not critical. Details were not immediately available.

North of Border

They were fighting one mile north of the border. There were some casualties. A Red land mine knocked out one American tank.

Convoys of troops and supplies rolled north from the border. Observation planes skimmed the northern ridges, spotting targets for fighter planes and American artillery.

A U. S. First Corps spokesman said the cavalry's smash in Red Korea was the real thing. He called it "a push, not a reconnaissance or probing action."

The North Koreans fought bitterly for Wonsan. From their ridge positions they slammed a hail of artillery, mortar and small arms fire at the advancing South Koreans a mile from the outskirts.

Allied warplanes strafed and rocketed the enemy positions. Fires flared in Wonsan itself and throughout the valley to the north. Villages to the south were in flames.

Allies Say Opposition Will Break

Troopers, Tanks of U.S. First Cavalry Cross Line 38 in Regiment Strength

Reds Kill Troops

Those North Koreans Who Would Quit Are Slain by Officers

Tokyo, Oct. 9 (AP)—Red Koreans put up fiercest resistance today against the deep penetration of R.O.K. forces fighting for the port of Wonsan and the first American troops to cross into Communist Korea north of Seoul.

On both widely separated fronts by the allies, officers expected the local Red opposition to crumble quickly.

But the Reds gave no indication that they will heed a new "last time" surrender demand aired by General MacArthur.

The South Koreans (R.O.K.s) may be preparing to turn at Wonsan from their 90-mile northward advance on the Sea of Japan coast and strike west across the waist of the peninsula for the Red capital, Pyongyang, 95 air miles ahead.

About equally distant from Pyongyang, troopers and tanks of the U. S. First Cavalry Division crossed parallel 38 in regimental strength on the road leading northwest out of Seoul, the R.O.K. capital, with Pyongyang as the apparent goal.

Are in Position

The allied ground fighting forces thus are in position to race—or plod—35 miles on the westward track, 85 on the northwest push. Such converging drives would aim to strangle the Red government of Kim Il Sun in its home base.

A fierce battle raged for the big industrial port of Wonsan.

AP Correspondent William Jordan, with the South Koreans, said they expected to crack into the city by Tuesday morning.

The heavy fighting at Wonsan and northwest of Seoul was the first major show of Red resistance since South Koreans crossed the border October 1.

Can't Quit Battle

W. A. P. Correspondent William J. Acheson, with U. S. First Cavalry forces who crossed Monday on their push northwest from Seoul and Kyesong, quoted a Red prisoner:

"The officers up there won't let them (the Reds) surrender or retreat. Troops who want to quit are shot."

Communist prisoners had foretold the battle for Wonsan. They said the Reds planned to make an all-out defense there.

Enough said the First Cavalry foot troops smashed into stiff Red resistance within 10 minutes after they had crossed 38.

The Reds held commanding positions in mountains on three sides of the Seoul-Pyongyang road. The cavalry troopers were forced to die in under a hail of mortar, automatic weapons and small arms fire.

Lt. Col. William Walton, Newton, Kas., said the job of knocking out the Reds was doubly tough because they were using smokeless powder. "You can't spot them," he said.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—The stock market became disturbed over further talk of credit curbs today and beat a hasty retreat.

Losses for a market that produced advances in the early stages ranged from a few cents to as much as $4 or more for some issues.

After hitting a new 1950 high on average Saturday, stocks stopped out confidently in the first hour of trading today. Gains appeared everywhere on the list. Suddenly and with little warning prices began dropping and inside of a few minutes were operating well below the closing levels of the previous session.

Stocks and bonds, which spearheaded the first-hour advance, also felt the brunt of the pressure to liquidate. Other categories including considerable weakness included building materials, radio-television, railroads, rubbers and utilities. Only chemicals appeared better as a group.

Late Bulletin

London Success, Oct. 9 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky said today Russia favors some points of the sweeping United States program to give the U. N. General Assembly emergency powers to combat aggression.

Vishinsky's surprising statement in the assembly's political committee came after John Foster Dulles, Republican member to Secretary of State Acheson, outlined the American program, which calls for standby military forces to back up United Nations decisions.

The Soviet foreign minister did not specify which points of the American proposal he favored. His statement puzzled other delegates.

British Minister of State Kenneth Young said:

"It is a fact that the Soviet Union accepts the general outline, we are glad to hear it. It may shorten debate."

Trespass Decision Reserved in Court

An action for trespass was heard today in Supreme Court before Justice Harry E. Schuch, involving the cutting of trees to widen a highway in the town of Wawarsing. Testimony was completed this morning and decision reserved.

The action is brought by Max Boxer, Ida Kaplan, Golda L. Boxer and another against the Town of Wawarsing. It is alleged that the town's superintendent cut trees along a road in the town which plaintiffs claim is a private way. The trees cut in 1947 were removed to widen the road to the three roads specified in the law. Plaintiffs claim the road is a private way while the town officials claim the road had been in use for many years and the town had appropriated funds for its maintenance back in 1928 and that it is a part of the town road system and the town had the right to remove the trees under the law and hence the road.

Plaintiffs sued for treble damages, Kooperman & Kooperman appeared for the plaintiffs and Leroy Lumsberry appeared for the town of Wawarsing. Defendant was given ten days to file a brief.

Societies Are Checked

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—Attorney General Nathan L. Goldstein of New York said today he was investigating at least five organizations soliciting millions of dollars for cancer relief. He said these organizations were using names closely those of accredited cancer relief societies and that he would move shortly to break them up. Goldstein, who did not name the organizations, termed the fundraising "very blundered" declaring they "play upon the emotions and decency of people of New York who have always been known to give and to help when help is necessary."

She Got Her Man

Mantowoc, Wis., Oct. 9 (AP)—Miss Carol Ann Erdman is the kind of woman who believes in getting her man. In the midst of preparations for her Saturday afternoon wedding, Miss Erdman suffered an appendicitis attack. Undaunted, she told only her family and went to the ceremony at the First Lutheran Church as though nothing were amiss. Then she had her husband, who is of Oak Park, Ill., take her to the Family Hospital. She was operated on Sunday morning. Mrs. Stanford Arthur Madison is reported in excellent condition.

National Guard Recruits

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—The National Guard has embarked on a campaign to recruit 200,000 men between 18 and 35 years old between next June 30. The army said the recruiting campaign is intended to build the strength of the guard up to the ceilings authorized for this fiscal year—350,000 ground troops and 40,000 airmen. Recruits will be required to drill and to undergo 15 days summer training, for which they will be paid.

Benches Are Removed

The custodian of Trinity Methodist Church, Wurtsboro, reported today to the police at 7 o'clock Sunday that he had removed several benches from Wurts street and placed them back in Cornell Park from where they had been taken. Officers Edward Leonard and Gerald Every investigated, and reported that one bench was "practically demolished" and that the top of one of the ornamental fountains in the park was knocked off.

Corsi Says Aid Refused on Basis Of Campaign Fund

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—Edward Corsi, Republican candidate for mayor, charged yesterday that a private hospital was denied city financial aid because it refused to give $1,000 to former Democratic Mayor William O'Dwyer's campaign fund last year.

Corsi, state industrial commissioner, said a Tammany district leader was reported to have set the $1,000 contribution as the price of the leader's intervention to obtain city aid for Mt. Morris Park Hospital, a new institution.

Corsi revealed the charge at a news conference and presented the hospital president who made it.

Proposition Rejected
The candidate said officials of the hospital rejected the proposition and the hospital still is not recognized by the city.

Corsi's accusation was based on statements by Dr. Cecil Marquez, president of the 50-bed hospital. Dr. Marquez retold his story at the news conference.

Corsi demanded that Acting Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, who is running for election as an independent Democratic candidate, appoint a special investigator to look into the case.

The hospital charge was one of a number of allegations of irregularities in city government that Corsi has made.

Says No Confirmation
Pecora, who also has the Liberal party nomination, said he had no way of confirming the truth of Corsi's charge. Pecora noted that Impellitteri, as candidate for reelection as president of the city council, took an active part in last year's Democratic campaign. Impellitteri stepped up to acting mayor when O'Dwyer resigned to become ambassador to Mexico.

Doctor's Story
The doctor's story, in brief, was this: The state-chartered, non-profit hospital went as far as a letter to O'Dwyer in efforts to get city recognition. Appeal then was made through an intermediary to the Tammany leader and the $1,000 campaign contribution was suggested.

The hospital doctors were "terribly indignant" at the proposal, and "dropped the matter." Later, another intermediary put the matter before O'Dwyer. City hospitals department representatives visited the institution, and orally approved it for city patients. But formal approval never was given.

Magistrate Gasp Over Beating Man Gave 2 Children

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—A magistrate gasped in court yesterday when he saw marks on two small children, allegedly inflicted by their father in beatings because they went to a candy store.

The father, Charles Bradford, 34, and unemployed, was sent to a hospital for psychiatric examination at the suggestion of his wife, Kathleen.

The wife told the judge her husband "is the finest when he is sober—and the roughest when he is drinking."

Mrs. Bradford, who had had her husband arrested twice within a month on charges of beating her screamed at him in court yesterday.

"You've been beating me long enough, but you won't beat my children. I'll put a bullet in you." The mother, a 30-year-old registered nurse at a hospital, showed Ridgewood Felony Court Magistrate Peter M. Horn the children's injuries. There were red welts on the back of James, four, and cuts on the face of Barbara, six.

The father told the judge he punished the children for leaving their home in Flushing, Queens, to go to a candy store. Mrs. Bradford said she discovered her husband asleep, and the children sobbing, when she returned home from work late Saturday night.

The mother told the judge that while she was at work the husband left the children alone while he went to a tavern. She said the children became frightened alone, and went to a neighbor, who took them to a candy store for sodas.

THE HIGH COST OF FIRE

Fires were never as expensive as they are today.

This is reflected in the per capita fire loss which shows an increase of 114 per cent in ten years. In 1940, the per capita loss was $2.17. Based on the first six months of 1950, the per capita loss this year will approximate $4.64.

Further evidence of the high cost of fire is recorded in the first six months loss of the current year. In this period, the loss exceeded the entire year of 1940 by $81,627,000, or nearly 30 per cent. In 1940, the estimated fire loss was $286,491,000. In the first six months of 1950, the estimated loss was $367,117,000.

Such figures might indicate that fire protection engineers are fighting a losing battle, but the National Fire Protection Association, a technical non-profit organization and the source of these alarming statistics, declares that such is not the case. The N.F.P.A., sponsor of Fire Prevention Week currently being observed, reports that the increased fire loss largely reflects the general increase in property values. The dollar which measures the fire loss has been inflated like any other dollar.

Actually, the N.F.P.A. reports that fire protection engineers feel real progress is being made. The association points to the fact that the number of building fires, estimated at 570,000, is about the same as ten years ago, even though there has been an increase of nearly 20,000,000 in population, an increase of 5.5 million new dwelling units, and a great expansion of manufacturing and warehousing facilities and other buildings, vastly multiplying the number of fire hazards.

Just as there has been little change in the total number of fires, so has there been little change in the causes of fire, according to the N.F.P.A. Carelessness with matches and smoking; use of explosive cleaning fluids; misuse of electricity; accumulations of old furniture, magazines and newspapers in closets, basements, and attics; dirty and defective heating plants and chimneys; and flammable wood shingle roofs continue to account for roughly 90 per cent of all residential fires.

SOVIET PEACE PROPOSALS

If you didn't know the Russians so well, you might conclude that their "peace" proposals for Korea had a faint air of reasonableness about them.

They talk of new national elections to be supervised by a United Nations committee, after all U.N. armies have been withdrawn from Korea. They want the committee to include the countries which border Korea—in other words, Russia and Red China.

Luckily, the rest of the U.N. already has recognized the booby-traps in this plan and gives no sign of accepting it. But the Russian motives behind it will be expressed in other forms, too. And we must be steadily on guard to see them for what they are.

The Soviet plan for Korea is nothing more than an effort to salvage by diplomatic means what the North Koreans have lost in the field. The proposals were not made while Korean Communists were winning; only when they faced total defeat.

Furthermore, if the plan for elections were sincerely meant, it's obvious it could have been put into effect at any time in the past five years. It wasn't necessary to fight a war to win the privilege of holding such elections.

If that balloting were held on Russian terms, it might well be disastrous for the freedom of Korea. With Russia and Red China on the suggested U.N. committee, the Communists could block every attempt to conduct honest, really free elections. Damaging delays would occur and Korea's future would be clouded in confusion.

There may be some in the U.N. who feel the West is merely prolonging the agony by keeping armies pressing northward in Korea when an offer has been made to end the fighting.

But it was not the West which resorted

THE QUESTION OF SEDITION

One of the inevitable reactions to the McCarran bill is a consideration of the question of sedition in a free society. Averell Harriman, for instance, tried to make a cast that Senator Taft approached the sedition when he opposed the President's policies.

Frank B. Ober, who has made a study of this problem, defined sedition as: "The advocacy of, or membership in, an organization whose purpose is to overthrow by violence our federal or state governments. We are not concerned here with mere criticism of government or public officials, no matter how vitriolic or how unwarranted."

But suppose the advocacy is not for the overthrow of government by violence but the expansion of the power of government by peaceful means? The overthrow might abolish constitutional government by force; the expansion could overthrow constitutional government by infiltration and the unwarranted assumption of power. Mussolini took power by force; Hitler by constitutional means.

Both accomplished the same result. Congress has been grappling with this problem almost since we became a nation. The American Revolution was not a unanimous decision, and after the Revolution, many were opposed to the new government. The alien and sedition acts of 1798 faced this problem, but public opinion was so outraged by its provisions concerning "seditious libels" that the Federalist Party was destroyed. In a word, what has been recently called "thought control" has always been resented in the United States.

Over makes the point that Congress has faced this problem principally in four ways: (1) To prevent naturalization of, or to deport seditious aliens; (2) to legislate directly against sedition; (3) to hinder and control sedition through alien and other restriction statutes; and (4) to purge the government and labor unions of Communists or other seditious persons.

Normally in our history, sedition has not been serious. Differences of opinion have been beneficial to the development of our political system. The radicals of the right and of the left have hammered out ideas on the anvil of debate to the general advantage of the country.

In World War II, pro-Nazi elements in the population were trivial, most of them being fanatical but unimportant and often ridiculous antagonists of Jews. Objective study must establish that their numbers were few and their influence on American thought and life hardly worthy of notice.

When it comes to Communists, however, we face a very peculiar situation in the organization of this party as an international espionage, infiltration and sabotage agency under the direction of Soviet Russia.

This involves the libertarian in intellectual as well as emotional difficulties. For instance, the distinguished dramatic critic of the New York "Daily News," John Chapman, has written a moving defense of some of his theatrical friends whose names appear in "Red Channels." His point is that these friends of his are able, competent, interesting and worthy of his friendship. He is discussing them in terms of his world, which is of the theatre.

I, myself, experienced some criticism when I wrote praising of certain musicians who also are regarded as having been pro-Russian and pro-Communist. I was thinking of them as musicians, not as politicians. I might even have praised them for playing music which the current orthodoxy of Stalin has excommunicated.

Mr. Chapman and I face, in this respect, the same problem that worries many other Americans—namely, that in the 1930's and early 1940's, Soviet Russia and communism captured so many intellectuals and artists of this country. Many of these persons played with popularity, followed the crowd, believed that they were pleasing the White House. I, who have devoted myself to fighting Marxism since 1918, realize that the innocent ought to be given a chance to establish their innocence. Just as I have always welcomed converts from communism, so we must give the innocent, the opportunist, and even the erroneous a platform to proclaim their renunciation not only of error but of folly. But no one can merely deny association where association obviously existed.

Sedition, however, is something very different. It means serving the purposes of an enemy country, willfully, continuously, ceaselessly, by any means, to the end that the will to resist that country is dissipated. Those who engage in such activities either to overthrow the government by force or to expand the power of government over the people, with the object of eventually controlling that government, are seditious. Difference of view is not sedition. (Copyright, 1950, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

PSYCHIATRY IN MEDICINE

We all know that there are more mental patients today than at any previous time, and at the pace at which we are living we can hardly expect a decrease in the percentage of the population afflicted with nervous and mental diseases. Yet since the coming of shock treatment, thousands of individuals have had to remain in a mental institution for weeks only, instead of years or lifetimes.

At one time, the patient who was obviously insane, defective or feeble was recognized and he was placed in a mental institution, whereas today, the mental and psychiatric clinics available in many general hospitals, make early diagnosis and treatment possible and institutional care often unnecessary.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Francis J. Gerty, Professor of Psychiatry, University of Illinois College of Medicine, states that in former days the emphasis in treatment of psychiatric patients was principally on humanitarian care in an institution, and treatment was by physical methods—quieting drugs, tonics, massage, baths, rest, exercise and diet. There is no doubt that this form of treatment helped many of the mild cases, but after all it was treatment for the body rather than the mind.

With the recognition that it is the mind and the emotions that cause odd behavior, there has been a great increase in the number of physicians who have become specialists in its treatment. They are called psychiatrists and their specialty, psychiatry. Instead of studying the anatomy of the brain and nerves as do the neurologists, the psychiatrists try to find out why people behave as they do. This means close questioning and observation of the patient which, naturally, takes up a large amount of the psychiatrist's time. It is often said that one-third to one-half of the patients who go to the doctor's office have no physical cause for their symptoms.

Dr. Gerty points out that all the other branches of medicine depend to a considerable extent upon psychiatry, to obtain a complete understanding of symptoms present. A forward step in the direction of "linking up" psychiatry with general medicine is the establishment of the above mentioned psychiatric clinics and even psychiatric wards and rooms in general hospitals.

If Someone Would Only Stop Dragging Their Feet!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Congressman Walter Brehm of Ohio recently called me a liar for exposing his "kickback" manipulations with his office payroll.

I suppose it might be appropriate to remind Congressman Brehm that some of his ex-colleagues referred to me in the same language, notably ex-Congressman J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey and ex-Congressman Andrew May of Kentucky, though they later went to jail.

However, I prefer to answer Congressman Brehm by giving some additional facts in the case and letting the public decide who is really guilty of telling lies. The total kickbacks Brehm received from Mrs. Clara Soliday, a 75-year-old widow formerly employed in his office for three years, amounted to approximately $7,300.

Here is a month-to-month account of how this money was paid to Brehm from the time she went on his payroll January 10, 1945, until she was summarily discharged January 31, 1948, after having broken her arm.

Mrs. Soliday was paid $232.22 for the first part-month she was employed. Of this, she had to kick back $100 to her boss. In the next five months, from January 1 to July 1, 1945, she received $332.72 monthly, of which she returned $150 each month to Brehm.

Her salary went up in July to $359.16 a month (net after regular income and withholding taxes) and so did her kickbacks. From July to December 31, Mrs. Soliday regularly returned $175 of her monthly earnings to Brehm.

For the first six months of 1946 Mrs. Soliday kicked back $180 a month out of a $373.86 net salary. From June 30, 1946, until she lost her job January 31, 1948, her listed salary was $442 a month. However, during all this 19-month period Mrs. Soliday kicked back $240 a month to Brehm.

In other words, during the entire 37 months the lady was employed, she was allowed to keep only about half her earnings.

Since a congressman's payroll is financed by the taxpayers, it is a violation of public trust, as well as the law, for him to require kickbacks from office assistants.

However, all Brehm ever told Mrs. Soliday was that the money she gave him was needed by the G.O.P. "committee" in Ohio for "campaign" purposes.

Troubles Pile Up

The aged lady's troubles really began to pile up in late 1947. While vacationing with a daughter in Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Soliday fell and broke her arm. However, another kickback to Brehm was due and she hastened back to Washington on Aug. 30, 1947, without stopping for medical treatment.

The arm was X-rayed in Washington and found to be broken, but before it could be set Mrs. Soliday went to the office of the House sergeant-at-arms on August 31 to cash her pay check. Then she went to a hospital, where she told a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Hiser, to get $240 from her (Mrs. Soliday's) pocketbook.

She then informed her daughter to put the money in an envelope also in the pocketbook. The envelope, believe it or not, bore Brehm's free mailing Frank, plus his return address in Washington in Brehm's own handwriting! In other words, Congressman Brehm made sure that his office clerk wouldn't forget her monthly kickback while she was on vacation.

Before Mrs. Soliday left, he gave her an envelope which he had addressed to himself in which to return the money.

"Isn't this a lot of cash to be sending in a letter?" Mrs. Hiser recalls asking her mother. Up to this point—Aug. 21, 1947—Mrs. Hiser says she also didn't know about her mother's kickbacks, but learned about the payroll padding for the first time when she put the $240 in the envelope and mailed it to Brehm.

Last Kickback

A son, Ray Soliday, an Interstate Commerce Commission official in Washington, personally delivered the last kickback to Brehm after Mrs. Soliday, still ailing from her accident and unable to meet Brehm's efficiency standards, was fired.

Soliday went to Brehm's Capitol Hill office the first week in February, 1948, with the $240 in cash. However, he urged the congressman to permit his mother to keep the final payment "in view of the circumstances" (her being discharged) and the fact that she had "no visible means of support."

However, Brehm refused, saying that the "committee" (in Ohio) expected the money and that he, Brehm, could not go back on his "arrangement" with the committee.

"I don't care what the committee thinks," retorted Soliday. "My mother is entitled to this money and she should be allowed to keep it."

Finally, Brehm agreed to let Soliday return $100 of the $240 to his mother—a sort of kickback in reverse—but he pocketed the remaining $140 for the "committee."

Ray Soliday didn't see Congressman Brehm again until last July when he was summoned to Brehm's apartment in the Methodist building and informed him that Drew Pearson is after a story about him.

"If Drew Pearson or any of his employees contact you—don't talk to them," instructed Brehm.

Today in Washington

No Instructions Are Issued Whether U. S. Shall Make Use of Veto Power.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 9.—Just where does the Department of State stand today with respect to the all-important use of the veto power in the United Nations?

No instructions, it was learned authoritatively today, have been issued to date as to whether or not, if the issue of admitting Communist China to a seat in the Security Council arises, the veto power of the United States shall be applied against such admission.

Before the Korean war broke out, the Department of State had declared that while it would oppose the admission of Communist China to a seat in the council it would not use the veto to keep the Reds out if a majority desired to admit. Since then, especially because the North Koreans got military aid from both Russia and Communist China in the invasion of a neutral state in the United Nations, the Department of State has reversed its position to the extent of withholding a decision one way or the other on the use of the veto.

This raises an issue of tremendous importance to the American people and particularly to the members of the United States Senate. For when the treaty containing the present charter of the U.N. was ratified almost unanimously by the Senate in 1945, the understanding was that America was not yielding any sovereign rights and that she retained the right to use her veto in the Security Council where most of the important steps in time of peace would be taken.

For several months now as the Soviet government has asked the veto power, the impression has been cultivated in this country that the United States would not use its own veto. Assuming that a good case can be made for the abandonment of the veto, the question arises whether the United States should surrender that important right without exacting from Soviet Russia or the other nations a commitment to do the same thing. Otherwise the American gesture would be meaningless and members of the Senate might feel that the treaty which ratified the charter was being nullified without a justifiable reason.

Strictly speaking, non-use of the veto is hardly a violation of the letter of the treaty but from some viewpoints it would be regarded as a violation of the spirit of the ratification act. Congress might see fit to adopt a resolution expressing its disapproval. It might conceivably lead to a bitter controversy in which reservations or limitations would be attached to the ratification act.

The impression prevails here that the decision whether or not to use the veto to exclude Communist China from the Security Council will be deferred until after the congressional election. If the Democrats win the election, the administration probably will be emboldened to take a passive attitude toward the admission of Communist China. Opposition would be perfunctory for the record and if it becomes known generally that the veto isn't going to be used by the United States, this will be the sum of the matter to the nations that they might as well go ahead and vote it down. It is this contingency which is arousing suspicion in Congressional circles today. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 8.—As an appeal to the intelligence of the voters of California, and as his own commentary on their intelligence, Jimmy Roosevelt has issued a comic-strip magazine similar to those which are sold to children, depicting himself as a leader, statesman and conspicuous hero of the second world war in which his captain was Colonel Edmund Christy, a notorious pro-Communist and a service politician.

The Eagle says nothing, however, about his connection with the interesting affairs of David Smart, of Chicago, the publisher and part-owner of Esquire and Coronet magazines. When he uttered his memorable and markedly insufficient reply to Alvin Karpis' documented charge that he had exploited his father's presidency to force his insurance business, Jimmy used the title "I'm Glad You Asked Me." He said he would always be glad to answer legitimate questions.

Self-Control Key To Fire Control Says Chief Murphy

Urges Everyone to Participate in Fire Prevention Week Observance

Declaring that "fire control is largely a question of self-control," Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy today said that the country's daily fire loss is about $2,000,000.

Urging everyone to participate in Fire Prevention Week, October 8-14, sponsored by the National Fire Protection Association, Chief Murphy said the "principal value of the week is the opportunity to emphasize the relationship between good living habits and fire prevention."

"Anyone knows it's foolish and dangerous to smoke in bed; yet, enough people continued to take a chance to make smoking in bed the leading cause of death from fire last year. Fire prevention experts can do no more than point out the danger. It's up to the individual to exercise self-control."

As another example of carelessness and indifference, the Kingston fire chief referred to 24,200 fires started by children playing with matches. "It's just a question of keeping matches out of the reach of small children. Don't leave match packs around where children can pick them up, and keep kitchen matches in metal containers and away from hot stoves. Or take the housewife who knowingly uses explosive cleaning fluids instead of non-explosive types, such as carbon tetrachloride. There were 41,800 fires last year due to careless use and storage of flammable liquids."

Still another cause the chief cited was a housewife who forgot to disconnect the iron when called to answer the telephone. When she returned, the iron was in the basement suspended by the cord and still operating. It had burned through the ironing board and the floor without setting the house ablaze.

Asked to define the leading causes of fire in addition to carelessness with matches and smoking, explosive cleaning fluids, and improper use of electrical appliances, the chief listed the following:

Misuse of electricity — 70,200 fires—Be sure the wiring is adequate. Have plenty of outlets. Don't overload circuits. Don't operate defective equipment. Replace frayed cords.

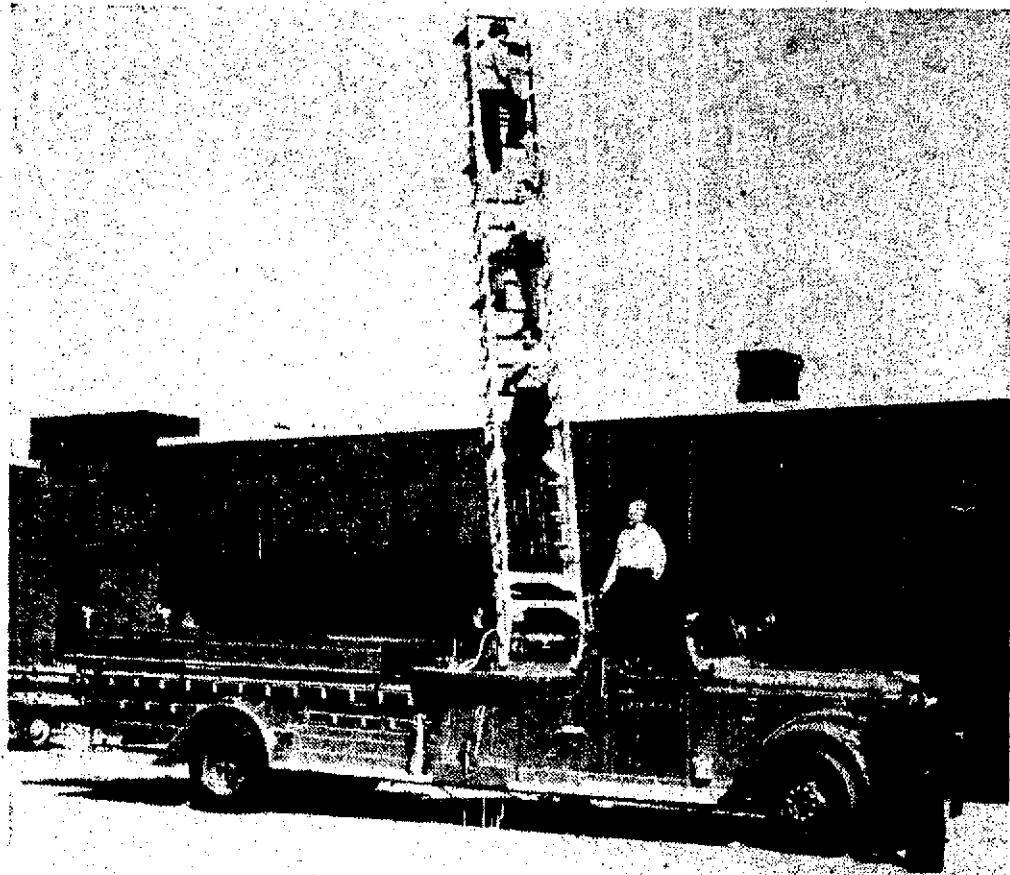

Defective heating equipment—49,500 fires—Keep the fire in the fire pot by making repairs promptly and cleaning yearly. Enclose the furnace in a separate room with fire-resistant walls, and cover exposed woodwork above the heating plant with fire-resistant material.

Defective chimneys — 25,800 fires—Clean the chimney at least once a year. Don't let woodwork be in contact with the chimney which should be free-standing, neither supported by the house nor lending support to it.

Sparks on roofs—23,500 fires—Recover old wooden shingle roofs with fire-resistant roofing material, such as asphalt shingles, slate, tile, etc. The combination of old flammable roof tops and high winds is the main cause of conflagrations.

"Sensible living habits are vitally needed to reduce the fire loss drastically," the chief concluded. "At least 90 per cent of the 11,000 deaths last year and 90 per cent of the dollar loss could have been prevented."

New Aerial Truck Here

Here is one of the latest pieces of equipment acquired by the Kingston Fire Department. It is a new aerial truck, which has been assigned to Wiltwyck Station. Local firemen are shown trying out the new 65-foot ladder on the truck. Firemen Joseph Disch, Frank Hornbeck, Arthur Golnick and Howard Myer are operating the ladder. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy is at the front of the truck. (Freeman Photo)

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 8-14

Yes, most fires can be stopped before they start... if we take common sense precautions. Watch your electrical wiring. Don't overload your lines. Take care of those newspapers you're storing in the basement. Keep matches guarded... away from children. Remember most fires are preventable!

You can protect lumber, vital sinew of defense! Watch that cigarette. Douse your camp fire with water. Turn over the earth and kill all the ashes. Clean away newspapers and garbage. Neatness and care saves millions of dollars... acres of good lumber. It's easy. It costs nothing. So, take care. Do your share!

Life of Vanderlyn Main Subject for Terwilliger Talk

Mrs. M. B. Terwilliger addressed the afternoon session of the luncheon meeting of the Ulster County Club Women of New York last Thursday at Laffer's. She reviewed the life and work of John Vanderlyn, Kingston's colonial artist, Vanderlyn, who was born in the memorable year 1775, has many original portraits of early Kingstonians hanging on the main floor of the Senate House Museum.

Mrs. Terwilliger also spoke of recent additions to the Museum, which compares favorably to others of its kind, and requested members to search their attics for items which might prove of interest to that organization.

During the meeting Miss Alice D. Seandorff, county chairman, presided, while greetings were extended by Mrs. Joseph Deegan.

of the Hostess Club, and president of the Twentieth Century Club. Reports reviewing club activities for the year were made by Mrs. William McVey, president of Sorosis, Mrs. Grant Morse, president of the Saugerties Monday Club, and Mrs. Joseph Deegan.

Guests of honor Thursday were Mrs. William H. Golding, president of the New York State Federation of Clubs, and Mrs. Andrew J. Raybreuther, Third District Director, both of whom brought messages of inspiration and good will.

Addressing the gathering, Mrs. Golding especially stressed the seriousness of world affairs, as well as the tragic plight of children in Europe who, she remarked, have forgotten how to laugh. She also informed members that a fund is being raised to furnish dried milk for these unfortunate.

The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Harry P. Van Wageningen, and was written by Mrs. Golding.

Dolores G. Leirey Wed Saturday to Clement A. Heitzman

Dolores Gertrude Leirey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Leirey, 16 Third avenue, became the bride last Saturday morning of Clement Adrian Heitzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Heitzman, 93 Hoffman street, in a double ring ceremony at St. Peter's Church.

The Very Rev. George Joseph Poerst, uncle of the bride, of St. Michael's, Baltimore, officiated in the chrysanthemum decked church.

Miss Ann Goldrick was organist, with Mrs. Caroline A. Perry, cousin of the groom, and Cornelius J. Heitzman, father of the groom, as soloists. Vocal selections were "Panis Angelicus," by Cesar Franck, "O Salutaris," by Wiegand, "Ave Verum," by Mozart, and "Ave Maria," by Rosewig.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin with sweet-heart neckline, fitted bodice, a full peplum and skirt, and a long train. The neckline and the peplum were trimmed with beaded pearls, silver beads, and iridescent sequins. She carried a satin covered prayer book with white rose buds, streamers, and swan-sona, and a crystal rosary. The bride's veil was caught to a lace cap trimmed with orange blossoms.

Mary Bruck of 16 Hudson street was maid of honor. She wore an old rose slipper satin gown with fitted bodice, peplum waist, full skirt, and trimmed with matching lace. Her lace hat had a rhinestone crown, while her old-fashioned bouquet was of yellow rosebuds.

William J. Heitzman of Lincoln Park, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were George Leirey, brother of the bride, and Carl Fisher.

A reception for 150 guests was held at St. Peter's Church hall. For her wedding trip to Buffalo and Niagara Falls the bride chose a wine and black checked suit with a black velvet collar, black velvet accessories, and a white rosebud corsage.

The bride is a graduate of St. Peter's Parochial School and Kingston High School. She is employed with the New York Telephone Co. as a toll operator. The groom was graduated from St. Peter's Parochial School and Kingston High School in addition to serving three years overseas with the U. S. army in India. He is employed as a mechanic at Harco Motors.

To Live in Mt. Tremper

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Every, Jr. (the former Jane Herdman) during their wedding reception at the Stayvacant Hotel Friday.

Jane Elizabeth Herdman Becomes Bride Of Reginald Hudler Every, Jr., Friday

Miss Jane Elizabeth Herdman, niece of Miss Isabel Herdman, 35 Snyder avenue, was married to Reginald Hudler Every, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald H. Every, Mt. Tremper, Friday afternoon at 4 in the candlelit Fair Street Reformed Church. The Rev. J. Dean Dykstra performed the double ring ceremony, while organist Mrs. William E. Eltinge played suitable wedding selections. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Donald E. Herdman. She wore a champagne suit, with brown accessories, and a white chrysanthemum corsage.

Ruth V. Herdman, of 35 Snyder avenue, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Herdman wore a forest green suit, with yellow chrysanthemum corsage.

Carl R. Every of Mt. Tremper was best man for his brother, while Almon Gale, brother-in-law of the groom, and William Beechler of 259 Smith avenue, were ushers.

A reception for the immediate families was held at the Stayvacant Hotel.

Following the ceremony the young couple left for a two weeks' vacation trip through the New England States. They will make their future home in Mt. Tremper.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and attended State Teachers College, New Paltz. Prior to her marriage she was employed by the New York Telephone Co., Kingston.

The groom is a graduate of Kingston High School, and served three years with the Army Air Force. He operates the Alamo service station, Phenicia.

Burl Ives, Famed Illinois Folk Singer To Be Guest Artist at Kingston Concert

Burl Ives, famed folk singer, known for his knack of self identification with his rugged gallery repertoire, will be the first artist presented in the Kingston Community Concert Association's 1950-51 series. The folk singer is scheduled to appear at Kingston High School Wednesday, October 18 at 8:30.

Forty-one year old Ives, who hails from the heart of the Illinois folk song country, can remember hearing his grandmother, mother, and father singing the wonderful old songs which seem to distill the essence of Americana. He cherishes the vivid memory of his grandmother who sat smoking her long clay pipe by the hearth, while away the minutes by singing such well loved ballads as "Barbara Allen," "Jesse James," "The Riddle Song," "Pearly Brian," and "Lord Thomas."

Burl Ives was only four years old when he made his first public appearance at an old soldier's reunion where he sang "Barbara Allen." He's been singing, off and on, ever since.

Ives' father was a "fire and brimstone" preacher, and as a boy young Burl was determined to follow in his footsteps. Temperament, interest, and realizing he would never become a sincere pastor, he entered Eastern Illinois State Teacher's College instead. A good student, and popular with his colleagues, he became star fullback of the football team, and won the conference championship.

But the spotlight was in his blood, and only a few months before graduation, Ives set out to see the country with 15 sorry cents jingling in his pocket. Travelling by thumb, he worked his way eastward, singing for his supper at church socials, small restaurants, and barn dances. His travels introduced him to an amazing cross-section of American people, and before long he had added so many new folk pieces to his already amazing collection, that he was able to sing for nights on end without ever repeating a single song.

Once in New York, Burl Ives began to study voice and singing in earnest, while radio work with NBC, CBS, and recordings with Decca and Columbia proved his unique talent to enthusiastic audiences all over the country.

Not to be forgotten, Broadway panned the new star, writing a part into "The Boys from Syracuse" especially for him, followed by a road company part in "Married an Angel."

When Pearl Harbor's war clouds rolled across the land, Ives enlisted in the army where he was assigned a role in Irving's "This Is the Army."

Returning to civilian life, he continued his 15 minute show on CBS, "Wayfarin' Stranger," and appeared in the Theatre Guild production of "Sing Out, Sweet Land," a folk song history of America. Hollywood followed with his productions of "Smoky," "Green Grass of Wyoming," and "So Dear to My Heart." Currently he is in his third coast to coast tour.

Ives' Kingston concert will include a host of old time favorites. From England he has borrowed "Lilly May," "Robin," "Barbara Allen," and "Golden Vanity." There will be his version of the early Welsh "Frouhardous Song," and a poem by William Butler Yeats. The proper Celtic touch will come with "I Know Where I'm Going," and "The Devil and the Farmer."

Coming to his own American folk song Ives will delight his audience with such perennial favorites as "The Ball Weevil," "When I Was Single," "Eric Canal," "Cowboy's Lament," "Turtle Dove," "Little Money," the American version of the English classic "Lord Thomas and Fair Eleanor," and "Lolly Tu Dum."

WOMAN CARRIES OWN COAT

A letter asks: "When a man and woman are walking on the city street, and she takes off her coat because it's too warm, should he offer to carry it and if he does should she let him? Or does carrying a woman's coat rank along with the bundles after shopping she is not supposed to let him carry? I believe that is what you've said, although I never could see how a man would feel comfortable walking along empty handed while the woman had her arms full."

Unless her coat is a very heavy sports one such as she might take to an outdoor game, I can't imagine a man carrying a woman's coat—certainly not an ordinary suit jacket. If she can't avoid heavy bundles he, of course, would offer to carry them.

Who Gives Housewarming?

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister and her husband have asked us to give them a housewarming. They have just settled in a new house and wanted to give this party themselves but one of their know-it-all friends told them it wouldn't be proper for them to do it. How in the world could this party for them by us be managed? It would certainly have to be given in the new house; else how would people see?

Answer: Their "know-it-all" friends are completely mistaken. A housewarming is always given by the owners of the house.

Repaying Invitations
Dear Mrs. Post: How can I show suitable appreciation for the invitations given me by friends of a man I know quite well? I live with two other women business friends in a small apartment. Entertaining them is out of the question. Yet I believe that either I, or he, or both of us, together, should do something for his kind friends who continue to invite us to meals, etc.

Answer: Either you and he together—or you alone—could certainly invite them to a restaurant.

Signing Notes
Dear Mrs. Post: Should thank-you notes for shower gifts and wedding presents be signed only by "Mary" or by both "Mary and John"?

Answer: "Mary" Unless a present is directed to both.

Is it proper to send invitations by telephone? This is one of 35 questions most frequently asked by readers. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-18, "An Etiquette Test," includes the questions and answers. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Married Fifty-five Years Today

Clarence MacDaniel Recalls Old Days Spent in Woodstock, Tannersville Area

Today marks the fifty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence MacDaniel, who were pronounced man and wife by the Baptist clergyman, the Rev. F. H. Gates on October 9, 1895 in the bride's Victorian parlor, Barclay Heights, Saugerties.

They had met little more than a year before, when Clarence MacDaniel caught his first glimpse of young Annie Simmons while marching in Saugerties in an election day parade with the Lasher Gun Squad.

"It was those uniforms we had," Mr. MacDaniel remembers with a twinkle in his eye. "They were really grand—bright red shirts, velvet pants and white leggings. Introduced to the red-coated swain by her brothers, Mrs. MacDaniel remembers that he was hanging on my heels the rest of the day."

Clarence MacDaniel was born at Cold Spring Lodge not far below Mt. Maroon, in Woodstock. The boy was hurried out of diapers when his father, became steward of the old Overlook House, owned and operated by Col. Smith of Smith Brothers' Cough Drops, Poughkeepsie.

Names Echo Lake
Two years later the MacDaniels moved again, this time to the almost legendary circle of water which government maps labeled "Shoe Lake." It was the boy's father, Samuel who named the bright blue circle huddled in among the mountains "Echo Lake." "It was only right to rename it that," Clarence MacDaniel explains. "Were you ever up there? Did you ever hear the echoes speaking back when you call across the water?"

When he was a boy living there, the old man remembers, he ferreted out a rattlesnake den along the trail between the lake and the hotel. Lying in wait nearby he caught more than he could hope to count.

"I used to sell the skins for a dollar a piece to the boarders at the Overlook House," he smiles. "They liked to have them made up into belts."

Move to Tannersville
They had been married little more than a year when Annie and Clarence MacDaniel moved to Tannersville, which for the next 43 years, was to be their home. And it was there that Clarence MacDaniel became one of the foremost landscape gardeners in

WALKKILL

Walkkill, Oct. 9—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Terwilliger and daughter, Linda, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terwilliger and sons, Robert and Edward, spent Tuesday at Wolf Lake with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Terwilliger.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Terwilliger and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Edsall are enjoying a week's vacation at Wolf Lake at the Edsall cottage.

Mrs. Eli Van Wageningen is convalescing at her home with a broken bone in her ankle. Her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Quick of North Bergen, N. J., is caring for her.

The Menz Family Club held their pot luck dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Caswell on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bellarosh have moved into their newly furnished home on Buena Vista street.

Mrs. Joseph Morris entertained at a party on Thursday evening. Those present were Mrs. Joseph Morris, Mrs. Joseph Morris, Mrs. Robert Terwilliger, Mrs. C. Everett Poole, and Mrs. Walter Roberts. An enjoyable evening was spent with games played. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Auxiliary of American Legion, Rose-Shooley Post 1034, has started another merchandise club among the residents of the village. The next regular meeting will be held on Monday, Oct. 9 at the Legion rooms.

The American Legion Auxiliary of the Rose-Shooley Post will hold a round and square dance on Wednesday, Oct. 11, at the Walkkill Central School. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 with music by the Kentucky Moonshiners. Refreshments will be sold. Everyone is invited.

Donald Woodworth is a new member of the English department at Walkkill Central School. He was born in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where he attended Muhlenberg College and the University of New Hampshire. Mr. Woodworth has served for three years with the United States Navy in gunnery instructions.

Assemblies at the Walkkill Central School for this school year are as follows: Thursday, Oct. 26, Woodwind Ensemble; Wednesday, Nov. 8, Dramatic Players; Friday, Jan. 12, Palmer Martin Marionettes for the elementary grades; Monday, Feb. 26, Dr. No Wong Park, lecturer; Thursday, May 10, Dabier acrobats.

Miss Jane Eckert and Miss Janice Terwilliger of Walkkill have entered New Paltz State Teachers College for their second and first years, respectively. Both are graduates of Walkkill Central School.

Other old acquaintances he likes to remember are F. W. Rindelsander, North Carolina's late Governor Evans, and Broadway's immortal Peter Pan, Maude Adams.

"I did all Miss Adams' gardening," he explains, "and when I was called to New York I often went to see her. I don't think I missed a one of her plays. Even now we're still the best of friends."

It was only 10 years ago that the MacDaniels moved from Tannersville to Kingston, forced by the sad fading of the mountaintop's former grandeur. One by one the great estates with their carefully tended gardens, and acres of lawn, had been sold, split, or had fallen to ruin.

But today, at 74, Clarence MacDaniel has a new dream. He wants to begin a gardening school. "I'd be a good teacher," he says proudly. "After all, I've been gardening almost all my life, and I honestly don't believe there's a single thing any of these young whippersnappers could stick me on."

As Pegler Sees It

edge whether, in that case, the commissioner here referred to made a formal entry of such a visit in the official record. The former official referred to here asserts that such a visit should have been recorded.

Harry McDonald, the present chairman of the S.E.C., is a Republican but he is also a layman and therefore accepts without dispute a fantastic proposition conceived by the lawyers who have been raising a body of artificial administrative law to suit their purposes ever since the S.E.C. was created in 1934. Mr. McDonald was willing to open the record. But an assistant, a lawyer, retired for a few minutes and returned to say that the record was there all right but was under seal.

He and McDonald advanced the proposition that the S.E.C., a secretive body of the New Deal bureaucracy, with great powers to blackmail political enemies and protect members of its own political camp from embarrassment or worse, was almost the same as a grand jury.

"That is an outrageous position," I said in effect to Mr. McDonald. "The grand jury is an institution with powers which even the courts cannot challenge, and authority to look into all kinds of public interests. This bureau has not the slightest resemblance to a grand jury."

Mr. McDonald said he would put question to the commission and let me know next day whether they would open the record. The next day he said they had voted against revealing it. I asked him how each one voted and he said they had not recorded their individual votes.

A lawyer who formerly was a member of the S.E.C. and knows the letter and implications of the act as well as anyone else, insisted that there was absolutely nothing in the act to justify this secrecy. He said the S.E.C. bore no resemblance to the grand jury institution. It appears that some lawyers outside the commission concede that secrecy is reasonable when no criminal process results from the inquiries. But there was a criminal case here and Smart was fined $10,000 and given a suspended sentence of two years on plea of nolo contendere, the charge being violation of the S.E.C. Act. There were other defendants who took similar action. If Smart has received a presidential pardon as others did who had traffic with the White House and the Democratic party I should mention that. But he himself did not mention any pardon when I spoke to him a few months ago. I have tried to check with him but without success. The latest word is that he has gone to Paris.

Smart's version of the $75,000 deal is that the money was transferred to Smart as a loan to Jimmy in return for a demand note signed by Smart with a side understanding that it was to be for a term of three months. He said he preferred to deal with Smart because he believed that it would be difficult to get "the process" against the President's son. He insisted that he had to "include" Smart but that he finally got his $75,000 back.

"Smart said Jimmy was going to get it from the old lady," Smart said. "Smart said Jimmy was getting a divorce."

In view of Smart's willingness to talk freely the commission's secretive attitude obviously is not maintained to shield him. And surely the candidate for governor of California has nothing to fear.

Henrich Rates Hustle Big Factor In Yankees' Sweep of Whiz Kids

BY JACK HAND

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—The 1950 World Champion New York Yankees may be set for a long run atop the baseball world.

This is no wonder club that swept four straight from the luckless Philadelphia Whiz Kids in the World Series. No "murderous row" humbles the opposition. But it's a band of alert opportunists, darting through the first crack in the enemy defense.

Maybe Tommy Henrich, a Yank of the old school, said it best Saturday night at the height of the victory dinner.

"We used to overpower them," Henrich said. "Now we have to substitute hustle."

Hustle, that indefinable quality, was more responsible for the Yankees' season-long success than any other factor, it carried them through when Henrich, hobbled by a bad knee, couldn't play; when Joe DiMaggio, slumped and was benched in mid-season; when Joe Page, the 1949 relief ace, couldn't get anybody out.

When the big guns were sniped by the brilliant Phil pitching series, the "little guys" came through. Gene Woodling (.429), Bobby Brown (.333), and Gerry Coleman (.286) carried the ball. Only DiMaggio (.308) of the old wrecking crew held up his end.

And Joe went hitless until he broke up the second game with a 10th-inning homer off Robin Roberts.

This was the Yankees' 13th world series win and their sixth in four straight.

They said the Yanks were a crazy club of fading stars when George Weiss summoned Casey Stengel from Oakland to take over the managing job in the winter of 1948. Two years later there are two pennants and two world championships to the credit of the 60-year-old grizzled campaigner.

As Stengel said about his 1911 plans, "I'd be a champ not to come back."

Overlooked in the tumult about DiMaggio's mid-season slump and Henrich's injuries was the value of the strong new blood from the Yanks' farm system.

Eddie Ford, the pink-cheeked rookie of 21 who won the last game, 5-2, Saturday afternoon before 68,098 fans, is a prize example. A year ago he was pitching in Binghamton (N.Y.) in the Class A Eastern League. When Stengel needed help in mid-season he reached to Binghamton and plucked out the young left-hander who piled up a 9-1 record down the stretch. In Detroit, Boston or Cleveland had a Ford in their farms, it could have made the difference.

Coleman One of Best

Or take Coleman, a greatly underrated player. He hit better in the majors than he did in the minors. At 26 he's one of the best second basemen in the league, a dazzling double play mate for Phil Rizzuto.

In the series, Coleman drove in three and scored two of the Yanks' six runs in the first three games. His fly ball scored the only run for Vic Raschi's 1-0 opening win over bespectacled Jim Konstanty.

Next day he scored the Yanks' first run in a 2-1 game and in the third game he drove in the first and last runs of the Yanks' 3-2

MAY GET NEW JOB

The Chicago White Sox will announce October 9 the signing of Phil Rizzuto (above) as their new manager, the Chicago Daily News said October 7, in a special story from New York. Rizzuto is now manager of the Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast League.

Victory, breaking up the ball game with a ninth-inning single off Russ Meyer.

Coleman, Ford and Brown—they are the Yanks of the future with Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer, Jackie Jensen and the kids on the way in the farm system; plus the tested starting pitching corps of veterans Vic Raschi, Allie Reynolds and Ed Lopat.

Pitching Highlights

Raschi's two-hit shutout in the opener, Reynolds' brilliant 10-inning win over Roberts in the second and Ford's job in the finale were the pitching highlights for the Yanks. Ford did need relief in the ninth inning Saturday after Woodling dropped a fly-ball for a two-run error. But he had a shutout with two gone in that ninth inning. He might have made it but Stengel wisely called in Reynolds to strike out pinch hitter Stan Lopat for the final out.

The Phil pitching was downright sensational. With a break here or there they might have won at least two games. Still, you could not honestly say they should have won any except the third, when a ghastly error by shortstop Granny Hamner gave the Yanks their opening.

Sister Lents' Goat

You have to have a goat? Well, make it Sister, the home run hero of the pennant clincher at Brooklyn. In the series he went 17 for 1 or .059.

Yankee hero honors are freely distributed among Coleman, Brown, Raschi and Reynolds. And don't forget a guy named Stengel.

Trailways Capture Three; Ferraro's 612 Tops Locals

Adirondack Trailways, setting the pattern for local clubs in the Hudson Valley Bowling League, scored a clean sweep over the Weiden White Fronts at the Bowldrome Sunday afternoon.

Only the Miron Lumber keglers failed to enjoy a good week-end. The Lumbermen dropped three straight to the Saugerties Reds at the Saugerties drives.

Elston Sport Shop took a pair from the Ellenville Press at Ellenville and Ruzzo's Bowlorium captured the odd game from Frank's Tavern of Middletown at the "Palace."

Johnny Ferraro again set the pace for local trundlers with his overall high triple of 612 Sunday afternoon.

Ferraro sparked the Trailways to a 2-0 series with his counts of 212-189-211 as the locals turned in games of 985-949-1013.

Hank Kammerer shot 215-208-603 and Angie Ferraro posted 223-223-601 for the Trailways. Traphagen's 537 series topped the Weiden entry.

Frank "Roots" Leskie spearheaded Elstons with a 605 series as they took two from Ellenville. Leskie fired games of 184-207-214.

Carlino was runnerup with a fine string of 194-194-191 for a 579 to pace Ellenville.

Steve Leone and Jack Martin divided honors for Ruzzo's Bowlorium in their two wins over Frank's Tavern. Leone shot 205-583 and Martin took runnerup honors with 220-576. A. Gundersen's 214-581 triple topped the losers. L. Garbano's 258 single was the big blast of the match.

Ken Joseph's 519 triple was the best in a low-scoring affair by the Miron Lumber trundlers who lost all three to Saugerties Sunday afternoon. Ricciardi of Saugerties topped the day's individual scores with a 615 triple on games of 210-203-202.

Bowling

Dick Howard made a tremendous effort for the "700" Club at the Bowldrome Sunday night but just missed by an eyelash as he exploded a 688 series to head the Mixed League.

Howard, after opening with a 188 singleton, came back strong with counts of 244 and 256 to give him the hefty 688 series.

Both of Howard's 256 and 688 marks established new records for the league. Jim's Strand Lunch set a new team triple record of 2411 on scores of 815, 822 and 774.

Howard's 688 blast completely overshadowed the rest of the league effort including Fred Rice with 206-556, Rose Schatzel 206-550; Boots Leskie 223-550, John Beckoldt 212-549; W. Lawrence 522; McLaughlin 519; John Ferraro 512; and Buster Ferraro 511.

Top pinfall in the Bowldrome Mixed wheel Sunday night went to Moo Lazarowitz who clubbed a 561 triple on stick of 184-190-187. The pace-setting series nudged out Charlie Horne who held down the runnerup slot with a 560 triple. Horne's marks included 171-210-179.

Elsewhere, W. Johnson rolled 554; B. Smith 554; B. Shabot 206-543; Jack Thompson 213-540; E. Ashdown 220-537; F. Jankowski 529; Joe Enright 222-526; Dick Whalen 223-524; and Harry Kaplan 520.

Jesse's Tavern turned in a new team single mark of 905. Tossing games of 157-199-188, Emil "Bud" Greenburg fired a 544 triple to pace the Y. American Mercantile division at the Y. Yanes. Ray Alward finished second with 204-537; Alva Bruce 535; Harry Studt 205-525; Herb Williams 509; Hank Grube 509; and Len Ward 212-501.

Rudi Hohenberger's 281 double paced the Saturday Youth League at the Bowldrome. His counts were 176 and 105.

Army, Sooners' Streaks Next in Line To Receive Possible Scissoring Job

Both Face Tough Foes Saturday

By WILL GRIMLEY

New York, Oct. 9 (AP).—Modena football's longest unbeaten streak in its history today and possibly disaster loomed immediately ahead for the two records that come closest to matching it.

Shattered at 39 games was Notre Dame's four-year uninterrupted sweep—cracked by a Purdue team that fashioned a streaking 28-14 upset Saturday at South Bend.

That left Army and Oklahoma to carry on success streaks already past the 20 mark, but both of them face a possible scissoring job next Saturday.

West Point, unlicked in 22 games, will oppose formidable Michigan in New York Yankee Stadium in the game of the day.

Oklahoma's Sooners will risk their 23 consecutive victories against powerful, unbeaten Texas at Dallas Cotton Bowl.

This game is the first half of Dallas' celebrated double-header. The night game will feature undefeated Southern Methodist against once-licked Oklahoma A. and M.

Texas, idle last week, holds a 34-26 victory over the Purdue.

team that rocked Notre Dame's, fighting Irish, Oklahoma, on the other hand, barely escaped with a triumph over Texas A. and M., achieved in the fading minutes.

Conquers for both Michigan and Texas would not create too great a surprise. They could do it.

The Wolverines from Ann Arbor, co-champions of the Big Ten, fell before Michigan State in the opening game but bounced back last Saturday to whip Dartmouth, 27-7.

Army, meanwhile, set down Penn State emphatically on Bob Black's passing, 41-7.

Top Clubs Tumble

The young season already has produced a brass disregard for the college sport's hierarchy.

The two top-ranking teams were given a rude bumping last week-end while two other powers barely escaped with skin intact.

Michigan State, given No. 2 rating behind Notre Dame after its manhandling of Michigan, fell before Maryland 34-7 Washington, No. 10, barely nosed out U.C.L.A., 21-20.

Michigan State's opponent Saturday is William and Mary, another week-end upset victim. The Indians were whipped, 47-0, by Wake Forest in Dixie's major surprise.

The other "top ten" teams came through without hardship.

Southern Methodist, No. 3 just above Army and Oklahoma, turned Kyle Role loose on Missouri to win, 21-6, Kentucky, No. 6, racked up its fourth straight shutout over harmless Dayton, 40-0.

Stanford, No. 8, crushed Oregon State, 21-0, while California, turned back Penn. 14-7.

Cornell turned up for its Ivy League campaign by smashing Syracuse, 27-7, behind Jeff Fleishman's passing act. Big Red now takes on Harvard, Yale and Princeton in succession.

Crime Increases Faster in Country

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP) — Crime is increasing faster in rural areas than in cities, an F.B.I. report shows.
A semi-annual report by the bureau last night showed an increase of 7.4 per cent in rural crime over the same period in 1949. In contrast, city crime was up only 1.9 per cent.
All types of offenses except negligent manslaughter and auto theft increased in rural areas, while in cities such crimes as murder, rape and robbery declined.
The bureau's report is based on compilation of reports submitted by local police authorities.
